

Hispanic/Latinx Search Hedges July 19-20, 2021 (CC-BY License)

Recommended search strategies to use when searching for biomedical and health sciences related information on the Hispanic/Latinx population. Maintained by the Medical Library Association Latinx Caucus.

Where we plan to share the search hedges:

TU ScholarShare <https://scholarshare.temple.edu/> (suggested by Stephanie Roth) IR at Temple University has a data deposit for search strategies

ISSG Search Filter Resource Is currently shared here.

The InterTASC Information Specialists' Sub-Group (ISSG) is the group of information professionals supporting research groups within England and Scotland providing technology assessments to the National Institute for Health and Care Excellence (NICE) and other associated Information Specialists.

Objectives:

1. Create a set of functional search hedges based on the availability of Hispanic/Latinx terms in each respective database.
 - a. A working group has formed to validate the PubMed (NLM) search hedge.
2. Once functional search hedges are created by the group, the next step will be to identify and run them through testing and validation with input from expert searchers

Important Notes about this search: (Mixed race, Indigenous populations, US only)

- We have chosen to exclude some mixed race terms (e.g. mulatto*) and do not support their use due to problematic origins. However, some researchers may decide to use these terms depending on their topic.
- We have chosen not to include Indigenous populations (ex: Mayan or Haitians) for this search. However, researchers may choose to include these terms if they want to include this population in their search. The search team is considering subsets of this broader search hedge in future iterations.
- We have chosen to include a United States only custom filter to focus this search on the United States population. However, this may exclude some relevant literature. We recommend removing this filter from your database searches if you wish to search the literature more comprehensively. This custom U.S. filter was borrowed and modified from this original search hedge: <https://guides.library.uab.edu/pubmed/hedges>.
